Objectives

A recent graduate with a BCA, bringing a solid educational foundation in Computer Science. Pursuing an entry-level role where I can contribute my keen attention to detail and motivation to a collaborative team environment. Excited to apply my adept problem-solving and communication skills in a collaborative environment. Committed to delivering exceptional service and enriching user experiences, I am eager to embrace challenges and foster growth in a dynamic setting. As a fast learner, I look forward to contributing positively to the team's objectives in a client centric atmosphere.

Projects

Airline Reservation System

The "Airline Reservation System," crafted in Java, streamlines flight booking with user-friendly features such as authentication, booking, seat selection, and payment processing. Roles are diversified to accommodate different users, and security is reinforced through Spring and HTTPS. Overcoming challenges like concurrent bookings, the system is poised for continuous growth, with future plans for mobile integration and loyalty programs.
